

Exemptions Not Required By County

Initially, it is important to know that all business activities are generally governed by the Governor's and Secretary's business closure orders. These orders referenced the list of industry sectors defined by the United States Census Bureau, known as the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS), and marked individual subsectors as "open" or "closed" based upon whether those subsectors' businesses are categorically life-sustaining, or otherwise necessary to assist in battling this pandemic.

For businesses that must be closed per the list, the administration created the exemption process to provide a means to identify those businesses within generally closed categories that are life-sustaining or are necessary to support the supply chain to other businesses that are open and provide life-sustaining goods or services.

The justification in each exemption request was reviewed to determine whether the specific operations described were life-sustaining or necessary to support a life-sustaining business. If the request met this standard, the business was provided an exemption from the closure order for the specific activities described in the request. If the exemption request was submitted by a business that was included in a life-sustaining industry subsector on the business closure list, or described an activity that was already permitted under the orders (e.g., emergency repairs), that business may have been informed that an exemption was "not required." That response relates solely to the business or operation described in the request. The following list includes businesses that were informed that no exemption was required.

RE: Request # «SubmissionID»

Dear «ContactFirstName» «ContactLastName»:

Based on the information submitted in your request, Governor Wolf and Secretary Levine's recent orders calling for the closure of non-life-sustaining businesses do not appear to require your business to close at this time. Certain operations of your business described in your request appear to be within a life-sustaining business sector that contributes to the health and safety of Pennsylvania. You do not require an exemption to remain open for business as to these operations. For further information regarding what operations are or support a life-sustaining business sector, please see the Department of Community and Economic Development's guidance at <https://dced.pa.gov/resources>.

Your business must remain in compliance with the social distancing and other mitigation measures which have been established by the Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as currently in effect or as may be amended in the future. Virtual and telework operations (e.g. work from home) must be the primary option when available. In-person work at a business site is only to be performed on the most limited basis possible to deliver the services or goods of your life-sustaining business.

We appreciate your efforts to combat the spread of COVID-19.
